Following is the rest of the data we collected:

Question 1: What does poverty mean to you?

- Unequal benefits plus unequal justice.
- Poverty often breeds crime in communities – often the case of what came first, the chicken or the egg.
- Poverty also contributes to poor nutrition; which contributes to poor health.
- Poverty = stifled potential. The problem is greed.
- Poverty affects negatively everyone especially the mentally ill. I knew a woman who was so worried about where she was going to live that she was delusional, believing people were pointing guns at her and that she was being attacked through her microwave. When she found a stable place to live she was a different person altogether.
- Poverty affects the community in many socio and economic areas. Individually it restricts ability to meet basic needs. Communally it puts pressure on services and political policy.
- People sleep outside in the cold.
- Poverty means more abandoned pets.

- The equation of wages and living costs does not work, especially for those on minimum wage, and those who do not own their own home. The bigger picture of our lives needs to be carefully examined. Everyone should have a way to create work, shelter, food, clothing and transportation needs, in a positive light. It must be pretty scary for many people, the way the world is right now.
- Lack of affordable housing.
- Less money for essentials i.e. food, medication and transportation.
- Lack of opportunities.
- Isolation.
- Poverty means that some are entitled to nothing and must justify their entitlement to every shred of that which is necessary to survive to those who believe they are entitled to these things by virtue of the privilege of their birth.
- Something that should be a top priority for eliminating.
- Poverty means limited choices, unfulfilled potential, discouragement, abandonment.
- Poverty is often of the soul with community and sharing poverty can be avoided.
- Poverty means constant worry about having enough money to pay the rent and buy food.
- Poverty means oppression – lack of choice about what to eat, how to spend time etc. Inability to live with dignity.
- Restricted opportunities.
- To see this level of poverty in Canada is very emotional for me personally. Having come from India in 1965 I have seen how it affects your intuitive self-esteem and self-confidence. Surrender to things beyond your control.
- Helpless and sadness. I served at the food kitchens in Winnipeg since early 1969 and the first time when I came out I cried sitting in my car outside. In Canada we need not see people going through it.
- Insecurity, fear, hunger, lack of options. I would like to see everyone able to be free to explore their potential without having to worry about these things.
- Poverty means not having enough money to live. There are no homes that are affordable to rent on a pension.
- I'm preparing to be homeless – lovely at my age.
- To me poverty means Canada, we should and need to help those at home that can't afford basic necessities.
- Food, clothing, housing. Our children should not be without the basics. Our seniors are affected as well in regards to basic needs – getting to the market, lack of companionship, is poverty as well. No one should be judged for having less.
- Your basic needs are not supplied by your community, therefore you are never able to relax and offer your gifts.
- A lack of community support.
- Over populated; lack of employment; housing crisis; drug and alcohol abuse.

Question 2: How does poverty affect you?

- How poverty affects the community – considerable energy is put out by various community minded people to assist those in vulnerable situations. Poverty is a vicious cycle for many families and the work done by many is like a band-aid that covers a wound requiring stitches. The time has come to bring everyone together, especially the vulnerable, to determine best methods to climb over the challenges of poverty that will lead to greater connectivity, resilience and healthy community.

- It ignites creativity and tolerance in those that live with love and abundance. It ignites paralysis by analysis and segregation in those that live in fear and scarcity. It is a catalyst that crushes and liberates, but it does so with bias.
- It affects everyone. The people living in shelters/who are homeless are not just those living with addictions/mental illness; but are the 'working poor'. I have a "cushy union job" and yet my annual income falls below the poverty line. It makes it hard to afford housing, as well as other areas, like having to choose between paying the hydro bill or eating.
- Being self-employed I deal with "poverty" every day. I also teach music and see it from a "family with 'less'" point. I try to keep things affordable, thus keeping myself in the "poverty" zone. But we all dig in and survive.
- Learn to live with less...not more.
- I am 82 years old; I have lived for 40 years in poverty. I am tired of seeing homeless people on the Sunshine Coast. Our government selling properties to foreign investors. Since 1990 no affordable houses have been built. Homeowners can charge any amount of rent for any square footage of living space. I pay $1000 for 500 sq.ft.
- Thank you volunteers for bringing injustice out in the open. Shame on our government, shame on allowing poverty in Canada.
- It affects me on the amount of energy I have to give after I'm done working.
- As a senior – cold winters (single pane windows); prescription drugs cost.
- Being able to build a savings shouldn't mean having to work 7 days a week at 2 jobs.
- I feel sadness and apathy over how much of a gap there is between rich and poor.

- For separated families the child tax benefit should not be shared when one parent's income is significantly lower than the other.
- I want a more equitable society – how can I be well off when others are not.
- Less government meddling. Free land for focused people to homestead and land steward.
- The tiny home movement is moving here. Government needs to get on board and encourage this movement on the Coast. There is lots of land and lots of enthusiastic dreamers who need homes. It's important these people are not squelched or stopped from filling a need on our Coast.

Share food, knowledge and environmental sustainability starting with children's education with knowledgeable adults.
- Increase supply and affordability of childcare.
